GOAT GLAND DOCTOR IS CONFIDENT

BY LUTHER A. HUSTON
STAFF CORRESPONDENT I. N. SERVICE
CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Thirty-three Chicagoans, including the chancellor of the University of Chicago law school, an alderman, a judge, a prominent real estate man, a newspaper man and three women, have had their youth restored through the transplanting of rhytizing interstitial goat glands by Dr. J. R. Brinkley, of Milford, Kans., it became known today. Dr. Brinkley has been in Chicago six weeks performing on an average of one operation a day.

The complete story of his operations, with the names of one of the prominent patients, was revealed by Dr. Brinkley in an authorized interview. His statements, as they affect one patient at least, were confirmed by the man in question.

Proof that the operation has been successful upon women as well as men makes the story of increased interest. One woman is supremely happy today, because, after years of hoping, she is soon to become a mother.

The single man whose name is made public is H. J. Tobias, chancellor of the University of Chicago law school.

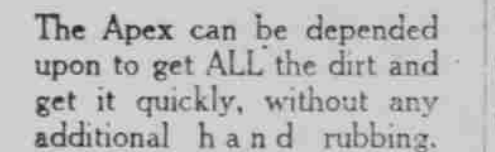

Five years ago Chancellor Tobias was, in his own words, "played out." Years of teaching in the Chicago law school had sapped his vitality. Today the droop has gone from his shoulders.

"I feel like a youth again," he said. "I am a new man!"

The stories of the other Chicagoans who have been benefited by the operations read like fiction. Many were ill or old and apparently beyond the skill of the surgeon's knife. Now from their own lips come words of praise for restored vitality. The humble goat and the Kansas surgeon are given the credit.

The judge in question was operated on April 28 and because of the wonderful improvement in his health has changed his mind about retiring from the bench. He is 55 years old. A newspaper man, 39 who had broken down from overwork, has resumed work with renewed "pep" and vigor.
